THE ALLIES' FIESTA

BIG BENEFIT TO BE HELD AT LA RAMADA PARK ON SATURDAY, JULY 21

By Walt Le Noir Church

"What's the idea?" "A monster Red Cross Benefit." All the Allies working together for Red Cross betterment. Well, it's a big idea, which is growing daily as new possibilities develop and new attractions are promised.

Glendale has the credit of "starting things" and this Allies' Fiesta will prove one of the most important entertainments ever given in Los Angeles County. It will bring hundreds of people to Glendale who were never here before. The Pacific Electric realizes that fact and will advertise July 21 as a great gala day in Glendale.

Could anything be more timely than such a fiesta in which representatives of all the Allied Nations will take part? Every booth will be distinctively decorated according to its nationality. Furthermore, it will be presided over by ladies and men, or children, wearing their national costumes and selling for the benefit of the common cause something which will be distinctly national. (But the Glendale Red Cross will dispose of its own financial receipts.) Besides, it is expected that all who wish to do so will attend in costume, which will add to the attractiveness of the very picturesque fiesta.

Many have not heard the far-famed music of the Los Angeles Scotch Pipe Band. Well, in their Highlander's regalia they will be at this great fiesta with their kilts and bag pipes. They are worth hearing and seeing.

The program is under the direction of Miss Ina Whitaker of Glendale, the secretary of the British Ambulance Society, who initiated this fiesta idea, not only to raise funds for the war sufferers in Europe, but to enable people of the Allied Nations who are residents or visitors in Los Angeles county to meet and know one another, to the end that better work may be done for our common cause. Have we not, all of us, one great, paramount, personal bond in common? Are we not all willing, if need be, to pledge anew our fortune, our life and our sacred honor in the fiercely raging, irrepressible contest of democracy against despotism? "So say we, all of us!"

It is a world struggle, a life struggle, which must be won at any cost. As yet it seems far away to many of us, and it is difficult to feel personally interested. But, too soon, alas, crepe-draped messages will be making the wires and the wireless moan with tidings of death and wounds and mangled remains, from General Pershing's army in France. We cannot long be spared such dire calamity, and the sooner we realize and face the cruel condition the better for us all. Surely better for our brave soldiers at the front who will need all the care and comforts which could be provided by the funds raised at many such public entertainments as that which Glendale will give and has named "The Allies' Fiesta" at La Ramada Park, Saturday afternoon and evening, July 21.

During the afternoon it will be in the nature of a garden party, or a reception of all the Allied Nations to one another. There will be national songs and music by several bands. It is hoped that the noted Glendale Municipal Band will be there to lead in the American songs. Why not unite with English, Australian and Canadian bands in playing America, which we adopted, for it is the British national air. The evening dancing will be opened by a grand march, which it is expected will be led by "Uncle Sam" with "Britannia" and "John Bull" with "Columbia." It is hoped that Washington, Lincoln, Gladstone, Napoleon, Peter the Great and historic notables of all the Allied Nations will be in that great processional.

It will be picturesque to a marked degree. It will be something for Glendalians long to remember and be proud of. And the practical good it will do will not be forgotten soon.

The United States booth will be in charge of Mrs. Menzo Williams and numerous assistants. The details of that and others will be given later.

England's booth will be presided over by the Glendale British Ambulance Society, of which Mrs. Georgiana Walter is president, Mrs. Frank England vice-president, Mrs. Henry R. Harrower treasurer, and Miss Ina Whitaker secretary. They will be assisted by Mrs. J. L. Whitaker, Miss Geraldine Mortimer, daughter of the British Consul at Los Angeles, Mr. W. G. Bower, president L. A. British Ambulance Society, and numerous

CHARLES E. PARKER

PASSED AWAY ON WEDNESDAY NIGHT AFTER YEAR'S ILLNESS OF PARALYSIS.

Mr. Charles E. Parker, formerly of 147 East Third street, died at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. J. C. Sherer, Somerset Farm, Verdugo road, Wednesday night. He was the victim of a paralytic stroke about a year ago, since which time he has been more or less helpless. The funeral services will be held on Saturday afternoon next at 2 o'clock at the residence of Mr. Sherer, 817 Verdugo road. Interment at Grand View Cemetery.

Mr. Parker was connected with the Weekly News when Mr. Sherer was its proprietor, and was secretary of the Verdugo Pipe and Reservoir Company for several years. He was of old New England stock and had traveled extensively in Europe, and at the beginning of the Boer war was the manager of a mining property near Johannesburg, South Africa. He was a pioneer of Denver, Colo., having gone there ahead of the railroad as a young man from Geneseo, Ill., where his father was a prominent merchant of early days.

In Denver he was connected with the land department of the Rock Island Road and associated with John M. Byers of the Rocky Mountain News. He was married in London to an English lady, the widow who survives him. He also leaves two children, a boy and a girl, and a sister, Mrs. Sherer.

Mr. Parker was a man of fine character, very modest and unassuming and although he had spent several years abroad he was at all times intensely American, and altogether a type of citizen of whom any community may be proud.

BLACKBURN NAMED BY McADOO.

Mr. T. W. Blackburn, mentioned in the following dispatch to the Omaha World-Herald, is a son of Rev. W. S. Blackburn of 235 Cedar street.

Mr. T. W. Blackburn has been a frequent visitor in Glendale for the last twelve years, and is well known here. Mr. Blackburn is a firm believer in Glendale and Glendale's future and has made a number of investments in city property.

Washington, D. C., July 5.—T. W. Blackburn of Omaha, secretary of the American Life Insurance convention, was named by Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo today as a member of a committee of insurance experts on whom Mr. McAdoo will rely for suggestions in working out a plan of military insurance.

Other members of this committee who will act in an advisory capacity in the most spectacular insurance plan ever proposed are George E. Ide, president of the Home Life Insurance Company; Edward D. Duffield, vice-president of the Prudential; Louis F. Butler, president of the Travelers' Insurance Company; Arthur Hunter, president of the Actuarial Society of America; John L. S. Huff of the Union Central of Cincinnati; John T. Stone, president of the Maryland Casualty Company; George B. Woodward, vice-president of the Metropolitan Life; Franklin B. Meade, secretary of the Lincoln Life Insurance Company, and I. I. Boak, president of the National Fraternal Congress of America.

The plan of insurance and identification for the officers and men in the army and navy who have enlisted for the war with Germany contemplates not only compensation to families in case of death of the head of the family, but also for total and partial disability, industrial rehabilitation of those who return unable to engage in the trade or occupation which they followed prior to enlistment, and separation allowances, such as have been adopted in Great Britain and Canada to provide the families of enlisted men against privation.

SINGLE TAX MEETING.

A meeting will be held at the Robinson home, 114 South Maryland avenue, next Tuesday, July 17, 8 p.m., in the interest of the great adventure campaign to open up the land for use and occupancy. Edgcumb Pinchon will give the principal address. Everyone cordially invited.

REGISTRANTS PUBLISHED ON FRIDAY.

The names of the registrants in the seventh local exemption district in Los Angeles will be published in The Evening News Friday instead of today, as was stated in these columns yesterday. There are 1930 names in the list.

GERMAN CHANCELLOR RESIGNS

REPORT THAT VON BETHMANN-HOLLWEG RETIRES FROM OFFICE TOLD IN BERNE DISPATCH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

BERNE, July 12.—The Vessiszhe Zeitung declares that Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg has resigned. The retirement of Foreign Minister Zimmerman has been expected on account of his bungling of the Mexican-Japanese plot and Vice-Chancellor Helfferich has been expected to lose his portfolio. The announcement of Hollweg's resignation follows the statement that the chancellor had accepted the idea of setting forth clearly Germany's war aims as outlined by Mathias Erzberger, who last week attacked the Pan-Germans and advocated peace without annexations or indemnities. Erzberger contended that such a step would convince the entente that it is waging war with the entire German people and that peace terms would not be dictated by the Prussian military caste. A coalition cabinet was reported to be forming.

GERMANY MAY BE PLAYING PEACE GAME

RETIREMENT OF LEADERS OF REICHSTAG BELIEVED TO MAKE LITTLE DIFFERENCE IN WAR CONDUCT.

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Germany in her apparent internal strife may be playing a big peace game, the State Department declared today. The department warned against exaggerated statements of the existing state of affairs. Germany's internal troubles are merely a surface disturbance as far as any effect on the war is concerned. Officials believe that the names of many of the German diplomats who figure so largely in the news dispatches are merely dummies whose rise and fall has little significance. Not until the great army general staff is reached will any internal disturbance in Germany have any effect on the conduct of the war.

RUSSIAN TROOPS AT KALUSCH

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PETROGARD, July 12.—Russian troops are occupying Kalusch, the former headquarters of the Austrian army. Thousands of prisoners have been captured and the Austrians have been completely routed. War office reports of the success of the Russian troops threw Petrograd into a state of wild rejoicing. Everywhere there is praise for Gen. Korniloff, son of a Siberian Cossack, who led his comrades in the victorious charge in Galicia. Two thousand prisoners and many guns are reported to have been taken when the Russian troops captured Halicz, the key to Lemberg, the capital of Galicia.

LIGGETT AUTHORIZED TO QUIET I.W.W.

COMMANDER OF WESTERN DIVISION OF FEDERAL ARMY GIVEN POWER TO STOP INDUSTRIAL DISTURBANCES

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—The war department has authorized Gen. Liggett, commander of the western department of the U. S. army, to confer with the governor of Idaho before taking any action that he deems necessary in suppressing I. W. W. disturbances. These agitators have taken advantage of war conditions to start a reign of terror in the west and the situation has come to such a pass that local authorities will not be able to cope with the situation and federal troops will be required to protect life and property.

UNITE TO STOP INDUSTRIAL STRIFE

STATE, COUNTY AND FEDERAL AUTHORITIES IN NORTHWEST DETERMINED TO STAMP OUT I. W. W. MENACE

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

PORTLAND, July 12.—State, county and federal authorities in the northwest are making a determined effort to stamp out the I. W .W. menace. The situation in Idaho, Washington and Oregon is more acute than in other states. Federal troops have been called into action in some districts, to quell the I. W. W. adherents who are paralyzing industries and terrifying the labor population. Mines and lumber camps have felt the effects of these disturbances and now the agitators are entering the agricultural districts.

GERMAN IN NAME ONLY

FRANKFURTER, KEPPEL AND LIPPMAN ARE WORKING TO HELP AMERICA BEAT THE KAISER

(Special Service to Glendale Evening News)

WASHINGTON, July 12.—Frankfurter, Keppel and Lippman, German sounding as these names may be, their owners are working 18 hours a day to help the U. S. beat the Kaiser. They are Secretary of War Baker's confidential advisers. All three left lucrative positions to enter the service of the U. S.

A "PUBLIC SCHOOL"

SAMUEL PARKER ASKS PERTINENT QUESTION IN REGARD TO SCHOOLS.

Editor News:

A story is told of a pioneer citizen who lived in the log house era nearly a lifetime, but at the last reached a condition of wealth from rise of land, whereby he was able to build a modern house with all "touch the button" appliances. When fully completed and ready for occupancy, his pioneer education fell on him with force, and he remained in the log cabin, the new residence being entirely too fine.

Something akin to this feeling of "too good for use" seems to inhere in the breasts of some citizens in regard to our school properties, of which all are so justly proud, though divided somewhat as to uses of property the joint property of all. Points debatable before should vanish before the clean-cut interpretation of the law as given in a recent issue of the Glendale Evening News. And the prominent point in that hinged on the definition given of a "public school' as being a building in which were taught by teachers created by law certain lines of study specified and defined by law, during certain hours, also legalized, and during these hours certain books are not to be taught or studied. So much for the "public school," but the moment school is out for any day the building becomes a community center and any room in it can be occupied by Bob Ingersoll in a lecture on Voltaire or Billy Sunday urging Glendalians to hit the trail, or any class, clan or denomination that the trustees will regard with favor, subject only that use shall avoid abuse of the property, which belongs de facto to the people. Lavish in outlay for the children and youth, moved by the sentiment that for these the "best is none too good," a feeling is extant to some extent that the mansion must go to these, while the builders may continue to occupy the old log house.

Now, if the premises herein referred to, that is, the legal status of the "public school" (teachers and scholars) and likewise the legal status of the "school house" (buildings and grounds) it would seem as if less complaint should be heard about our poverty in the matter of recreation grounds and places (centers) for the pastime of young people while we enter on and use what we have. Why not occupy the fine mansion we builded? Is it not ours?

GUESSING CONTEST

An interesting weight guessing contest is going on at the Chamber of Commerce. How near can you guess the weight of the big tin foil ball in the window or that of the little one, which grows daily? If you tried to lift either you would likely have a surprise. Each person may have two guesses. No charge for guesses except whatever bits of tin foil you wish to give to help make the little ball grow.

The person guessing nearest to the actual weight of the large ball will be given 2 tickets to the monster Red Cross Benefit, called "The Allies' Fiesta," to be held Saturday afternoon and evening, July 21, in La Ramada Park, at the end of the Glendale P. E. car line. That will be one of the most interesting entertainments ever given by Glendalians.

Says the Big Ball to you: "Once I was like that little tin foil ball—but if you and your friends will bring me all the tin foil you have been throwing away, soon that little fellow will be bigger than I am—and I shall be twice as big. Why not do your tin foil bit?"

The musicians of the Morosco Theatre, under leadership of Mr. J. N. Laraia, collected the tin foil, assisted by Mr. Adolph James Corrigan, a popular member of the Morosco Stock Company. But Adolph Wiedoeft, one of the orchestra, molded the tin foil into this ball, whose weight so many are trying to guess.

Both these tin foil balls will be on exhibition at the Allies' Fiesta.

GARDEN PARTY FOR Y.M.C.A.

Much interest is being taken in the big Y.M.C.A. war work benefit garden party to be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Robert White, corner of First and Orange streets, on the evening of Tuesday, July 17. Special features are being planned and entertainers of note have offered their services to assist in this splendid cause. This affair is under the auspices of the Tuesday Afternoon Club and promises to be a brilliant social affair as well as a profitable one for the cause.

PLAY GROUNDS

PACIFIC AVENUE GROUNDS TO BE OPEN TO CHILDREN THREE AFTERNOONS.

The Pacific avenue playgrounds are open to all the children of Glendale on Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoons from 2 until 6. Two volunteer directors will be in charge and better care can be given than in previous seasons of the childrens' activities.

This summer the girls will be almost entirely the sole occupants of the tennis court, as the older boys are all working. There are hard balls, indoor and rubber balls and bats to go with them, marbles, dominoes, a croquet set and the tennis net. There is plenty of apparatus for good times all summer.

With two persons in charge and the play grounds open but three afternoons a week a splendid attendance is expected. Let the boys and girls come, but dress them in play clothes.

Monday afternoons from 2:30 to 3:30 those children who are interested will meet in one of the school rooms and study nature. Several of the children have already started their note books of the first afternoon's work on shells and sea life.

A lively contest as to the finest note book between the boys and the girls will be a feature of the summer's work. The boys so far have shown more ability than the girls but the girls may surprise them yet.

Note books (preferably the tencent kind, No. 408, into which the pages of drawings can be inserted,) pencils and erasers, will help the children in this interesting work.

They have also been asked to bring with them anything of interest along this line; a discarded bird's nest, a turtle, a toad, butterflies or wild flowers. Eyes and ears are to be open for sights unusual and these are to be told to the others.

OBITUARY OF MRS. ALLEN

Mrs. Charlotte A. Allen was much more than an ordinary character. She was born at Syracuse, N. Y., in 1841, being at the time of her sudden departure from this life seventy-six years old.

When a child of tender years she was taken by her parents from New York to Indiana, where she grew to a splendid young womanhood. She early developed a strong desire for the medical profession and in 1874 she entered the great medical school, Ann Arbor, Michigan, from which she graduated with honors in 1879.

Shortly thereafter she entered her chosen profession, in which she achieved real success and in which she continued until impaired hearing seemed to make it necessary for her to retire.

The practice of medicine in her much-loved department of service was entered into at La Salle, Ill., where she continued for a number of years, later coming to Los Angeles and continuing her work here, in which she had marked success.

In 1900 she moved to Glendale, which since has been her home and where she was highly esteemed by all who knew her.

During the time of her early womanhood she was married to B. A. Allen, who a numer of years ago departed this life from their home on East First street.

For a number of years Mr. Allen had been severely afflicted due to an accident which occurred in Los Angeles while in discharge of his duty. During the years of his affliction this woman, his devoted wife, gave much of her time and energy to his comfort and aid. To the union of this worthy couple there were born two sons, Charles T., who died at Plymouth, Ind., 1910, and G. W. Allen, who at present is living at Taft, Cal., and who with his family are present to attend these impressive rites.

Mrs. Dr. Allen was for a good many years a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and gave of her time, talent and means to forward the interests of Christ's Kingdom. She had the satisfaction of witnessing the conversion of her husband and seeing him brought into the Church during the pastorate of the writer of this obituary. A good and talented woman has joined the hosts above, where the weary are forever at reast and in the enjoyment of perfect peace world without end.

NOTHING FOR COUNTRIES WHO AID GERMANY

The time has come in the history of the United States when it is necessary for every possible step to be taken to protect the lives and honor of our citizens. The president of the United States and Congress have deemed it best to draft into war service the young men of our land to fight against imperialism.

If it is right to command the young men to take up arms against a foreign nation it is right to command that all shipments of food supplies be cut off from that nation and all other nations that are furnishing food products or war munitions to the enemy. It seems absurd that the United States should for a minute ship anything to a neutral people that carry on commerce with Germany. Neutral countries have a right to trade with Germany, but such neutral countries should not expect to continue commercial dealings with the United States.

The German government is pursuing an unjust course. The armies of that country are waging a cruel war against the Allies on territory not their own. The German soldiers are devastating the homes and property of people who have not disturbed a dollar's worth of property on German soil. The Germans in this instance are the aggressors, and the end of their aggressions is not in sight. This Imperial spirit of rule the world must be overcome, even if it becomes necessary for the Allies and all neutral countries to be forced to cut off all commercial dealings with Germany.

What inconsistency, to have conditions such that the young man from the United States is wounded and perhaps killed by the German soldier who was nurtured by food produced in the United States by the father of the boy who unfortunately fell in battle!

GERMANS TOLD AMERICANS TORTURE PRISONERS

PARIS, June 30 (By Mail)—German aviators are being told by their superior officers that capture by the French or Americans means torture. Evidence comes from the front to-day of the enemy's growing lack of air morale and the fear with which he enters combat.

Near the headquarters of the Lafayette Escadrille, Aviator Gailer, French flyer of an escadrille working in conjunction with the American birdmen, attacked a German biplane. Twenty-five well placed shots wounded the enemy pilot in the arm. The latter, obsessed by fear of capture, became so frightened that he almost lost control of his machine. He hurriedly and ungracefully planed down to the nearest point and landed. It was behind the French lines. He could have easily maneuvered in such a manner as to reach the German lines in safety.

The story of the German airman's fear developed when he was questioned by his French and American captors. He explained that, during the combat, his machine gunner had hidden in the body of the biplane, too much afraid to look at the attacking French machine. Before leaving their aerodrome both had been impressed that they would be doomed to hideous physical agony if captured. They were accordingly relieved when told that a prison camp with better food than they might expect in Germany was the worst they could expect.

OUTDOING SUBMARINES

Appalling as has been the toll of the German submarines, they by no means have conquered the sea, nor is the net result of the ruthless drive by Germany such as to give hope of ultimate success to the Teutonic powers. The United States and the entente powers, it seems, soon will be turning out virtually as much shipping tonnage each month as the submarines sink.

In order to make the ruthless system successful, the Teutons must destroy merchant ships much faster than new vessels can be built and put into commission. This is not being done. And as time goes on, the ratio of success will decrease, it may be assumed, both from improved methods of fighting the U-boats and from the construction of merchant ships of a type that can parry submarine attacks better than ships could do earlier in the war. All in all, the submarine is not coming up to claims of the German authorities.—Whittier News.

"'TWAS EVER THUS"

A recent writer, in England, tells a tale which will find sympathetic appreciation in the hearts of those who have endured many things by reason of much advice. He was an allotment holder, and he had been advised to grow sugar beets as a sure solution of the sugar problem, when it came to jam making. All you have to do, these advisers declared, is to boil the beetroot with whatever fruit you want to convert into jam. Very little additional sugar will be required, and, in case of sweet fruits, such as strawberries, none at all will be needed. Then came the agricultural expert, and he saw only one difficulty, namely, that the jam-making season closed at about the end of August, whilst beetroots were not ripe until the end of September.

TRIBUTE TO ARCHITECTS

The visit of the two commissions from France and England will be productive of many more things than the very serious business of the moment, the carrying on of the great war. It is clear these statesmen from overseas kept their eyes wide open to all phases of American life, and their side remarks prove they are as acute as they are sympathetic observers. For one thing, quite accidentally, as it were, Mr. Balfour remarked in New York the other day about the magnificence of the "giant cathedrals" which, he added, "you Americans call office buildings." And his comment was not only apt, but a great and deserved tribute to the American architects who have made the skyscraper not only a thing of business convenience, but a tour de force of beauty as well. The Woolworth building in New York, for instance, does lift and loom like some cathedral of Brodignag, the land of the giants, though it is a cathedral without a nave and with a huge tower adjoining a very compact transept.

But many of the great structures suggest the towered splendor of the Gothic temples without following the grandeur that was Rome and the glory that was Greece in architecture and do it easily. Mr. Balfour was right in his unqualified admiration of those great buildings. Shallower men have come over ready to declare before landing, even, that the "American skyscraper, of course, is hideous," but not so with the real thinkers and the great architects from abroad. They know that in the skyscraper the American has met a problem and solved it magnificently, securing beauty in utility and on a scale the world has never seen accomplished before.—Philadelphia Ledger.

This is not a time for the rich to profit out of war conditions. Prices of all necessities of life should be placed at a reasonable consideration, and woe unto the man who attempts to speculate at the expense of the middle and poorer classes of people.

INTESTINAL INDIGESTION IN INFANTS

By DR. RALPH W. LUSBY.

The hot weather of the past few weeks has served to bring forcibly to the mind of every practicing physician the necessity for exercising the very best judgment and care in the prevention and treatment of intestinal disorders so prevalent among babies at this season of the year. The period of greatest responsibility in the management of this condition is before the patient is seen by the physician. Every mother should realize that the presence of a loose green stool is a danger signal and that all milk or food containing protein or fat should be immediately withheld. A dose of at least one tablespoonful of castor oil should be given and the patient placed immediately on a diet consisting of barley or rice water prepared in accordance with previous instructions of the physician and varying in strength suitable to the age of the patient. Food which would produce no ill effects in cool weather will produce symptoms in warm weather owing to the fact that the general vitality has been lowered by the extreme heat and humidity, which favor fermentation or putrefaction in the intestines. Unusual precaution should be taken in properly preparing food for those babies which are bottle fed. The careful application of this knowledge by the mother and early consultation with a physician will be a great factor toward lowering the mortality rate and will prevent many hours of anxiety by the parents at the bedside of their little ones.

MANAGING A VACATION.

As the hot days arrive it is, as usual, time to consider taking a vacation. Of course some people take one all the year round. But even by hard-working people a vacation can be either used or abused. Indeed it seems that many persons fail to get very much good from their holidays. They even take harm.

How else can one explain the frequency with which the question is asked, "Have you recovered from your vacation yet?" Of course this may refer only to a fact commonly known that after you have broken your regular routine for a while it does take a day or two to get back into harness even though you are feeling better than when you left home. But the need of "recovering" from a vacation may run somewhat deeper. It may mean that you didn't think the situation over carefully enough before you started.

Everyone ought to ask himself before going on a vacation, "How tired am I as a matter of fact?" A little mentally weary and needing a change or tired clear through and body run down? If a person has reached this second stage then he ought to lay aside all intention of having a strenuous vacation and give himself all the rest he can possibly get. Some physical exercise each day may be all right, but it should be stopped the moment the muscles grow tired.

On the other hand if you are feeling fairly fresh when you start it will probably do you good to enter with enthusiasm into all possible plans for exercises and diversions, even to force yourself a little in pursuit of them. It may be just the thing to start sluggish nerves into new life.

If you cannot take a vacation it is always well to arrange some little changes in your usual routine. Try sleeping outdoors for a while. Go on a short trip or two, if only for an afternoon. One hard-working woman in a big city library was asked if she never took a vacation. "Why, no; I don't need to," she promptly replied. "I just change my work—that's all the vacation I need!"—Omaha Examiner.

JAPANESE BANDANAS.

A "Furoshiki" (with the accent on the second syllable and the "i's" pronounced as "e's",) is probably one of the most commonly used articles in Japan. A furoshiki is a square piece of cloth used for wrapping parcels up in. These squares of cloth vary in size from twelve inches to several yards.

The correctly dressed Japanese lady stepping from her jinrikisha to make a call carries her dainty card case wrapped in a square of finely woven, artistically colored silk crepe. It is hardly counted good form for even a book to be carried without the inevitable wrapping of the square cloth around it. One sees professors climbing off the street cars near the Imperial University with their books bundled up in these squares.

Indeed, I heard of one missionary who had lived in the country so long that when he was getting ready to come to America for a year's furlough, he went to several stores and painstakingly picked out twenty or more of these squares of cloth of various patterns to give as souvenirs to his friends at home. And when a lately arrived young missionary remonstrated with him, telling him his friends at home would never use them as the Japanese did, and would likely not appreciate them, he could not believe it, and it was only after a prolonged struggle that the furoshikis were finally abandoned for gifts that would appeal to the more vulgar western mind. That man had lived in the country long enough to acquire the truly Japanese viewpoint, and to the Japanese it was a treasure. To the unsophisticated, these squares do look dangerously like the bandanas used by the tribe of wandering vagabonds known as tramps in our country, but to the trained eye of the Japanese they present simply a modest way of covering up one's belongings.

Business men use them almost to the exclusion of the small hand satchels that are common here. One morning I was drawing a few dollars off my account in a bank in Tokyo when a rather poorly dressed middle-aged man came up to the wicket, and I heard him say quite casually, "Ten thousand dollars, please" (in Japanese, of course.) The amount was counted out to him in bills, and he wrapped it up in a little old purple cotton furoshiki—the like of which your washwoman would think twice about carrying home—picked it up quite carelessly, or seemingly so, and sauntered out toward the street car. I chanced to get into the same car, and sat across from him. He threw the parcel down and bestowed, apparently, no more attention on it than as if it were that much worthless paper.

The Tokyo Street Railway Company has a rule which says no one carrying a large parcel unwrapped, a box, a suitcase, or like article can ride in a car; the cars are not for baggage. But the Japanese, in his characteristic skilful way, evades this law by tying a large navy blue cotton furoshiki around whatever sized bundle he may happen to be carrying. It may be five feet square. All he does is simply buy a six-foot square of cotton cloth and wrap it up in it; then with his box of fish or vegetables or huge knapsack, he can calmly stare the conductor in the face and inform him he has no box or bundle or other objectionable parcel—all he has he can see for himself, just a furoshiki with some few things inside—which makes all the difference in the world. As there is no law against parcels done up in furoshikis having a free ride, he climbs on, and there's an end to it. —Exchange.

Mrs. John Morrison and daughter, Miss Ione Morrison, of Los Angeles, is visiting Mrs. Morrison's brother, Mr. Walter S. Carmichael and family of 433 Cedar street.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. McFadden, who have been residing on Burchette street since their return from the north, have moved to their old home at 1313 West Seventh street.

Mrs. Freeeman McG. Kelly of 443 West Colorado street was the guest of Mrs. Helen Joyce of St. Andrews place, at Mrs. Joyce's cottage at Balboa several days recently.

Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Shrode and Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Rogers and family, all of Holtville, are visiting Dr. Pearl S. Rittenhouse, 115 Walnut avenue. Mrs. Rogers is a sister of Dr. Rittenhouse.

Mrs. Gibson Kelly of Sierra Madre is visiting Mrs. L. W. Sinclair, 226 East First street. Mrs. Kelly is a former resident of Glendale, having lived for some years in their home on First street.

Mr. and Mrs. George Allen of Taft, Cal., who were called here by the death of Mrs. Charlotte Allen, will remain in Glendale until next Sunday. They are with Mrs. Allen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Case, 111 South Kenwood.

Mrs. Stanley Woodyard, 1554 Vine street, is spending the day at Santa Monica, the guest of Miss Louise Robinson, formerly of Glendale. Miss Gladys Woodyard, who has been visiting Miss Anderson the past week, will return with her mother.

The long wharf at old Port Los Angeles is the destination of a fishing party leaving this afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. H. G. MacBain and their guest, Mr. Chas. Forman of Holtville, Mrs. Wulff, Mrs. Robinson and Mrs. Slaughter of Los Angeles are the members of the party enjoying this outing.

Having been asked to take charge of the Scotch booth at the Allied Benefit and Fete at La Ramada, Saturday, July 21, I shall greatly appreciate if any Scotch people or others interested might in any way suggest or help to make this booth attractive. Please communicate with Mrs. Alexander Mitchell, Phone Glendale 694J.

At a meeting of the executive board of the Tuesday Afternoon Club at the home of the president, Mrs. William Ramsey, on Wednesday, the resignation of Mrs. H. P. Goodwin, as corresponding secretary of the Tuesday Afternoon Club, was, on account of ill health, accepted and Mrs. H. D. Goss was appointed corresponding secretary for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Banker, 231 Cedar street, are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Ray B. Shaw of San Diego. Mr. Shaw, who is a nephew of Mr. Banker's, arrived Wednesday evening from San Diego and was joined Thursday by Mrs. Shaw, who is returning from a six weeks' visit to Colorado Springs. They will spend Mr. Shaw's vacation in and around Los Angeles and the various beaches.

The Senior Philathea Class of the First Methodist Church are planning a most unique entertainment for Friday night at the First Methodist church. The young ladies will conduct a Country Store. There will be other attractions, a fortune teller, shooting gallery, an animal show, a six-eyed Murphy and a sea-sick orange. The members of the class will be in costume and Mr. Goss will fiddle. Punch, candy and ice cream will be on tap.

BREVITY IN ANNOUNCEMENTS.

In making announcements contributors to The Evening News are requested to be brief. Write the announcement desired to be made in brief and logical manner. It has become customary for a few contributors to reannounce coming events by asking us to publish lengthy articles. After the first announcement of a coming event there is no news value in subsequent announcements. It costs money to fill space with type; therefore practice brevity.

In Commerce, Georgia, lives Mrs. Sarah J. Gordon, who is ninety-two years of age. The other day she sold a bale of cotton weighing five hundred and ninety-five pounds. This cotton was planted, hoed, and picked by Mrs. Gordon.

In the last ten years the New York City subway has carried 2,915,200,205 passengers, with the loss of only a single life. No other railway, it is claimed, can equal this record.

other prominent people. In England's booth afternoon tea will be served. The fish pond will be in charge of the Princess Mary Chapter, Daughters of the Empire, Los Angeles.

In the Australian booth ice cream, afternoon and evening, by Mrs. E. L. Le Vigne of Glendale Heights, assisted by her nieces, Misses Ida, Eva and May Lahey of Glendale, Mrs. E. Downe of Los Angeles and others.

Canada? Canadians, it is earnestly asked that you come forward and consult Miss Ina Whitaker about suitable arrangements for Canada. Miss Whitaker's telephone is Glendale 586J. Her residence is 208 W. Ninth street. The offices of the Glendale British Ambulance Society are over Bank of Glendale, at Broadway and Glendale avenue. Any messages or donations sent to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce will reach Miss Whitaker. Chamber of Commerce phones are Glendale 249-J and Home, Blue 258. Mrs. Hewitt was to manage the Canadian booth but serious illness of Mr. Hewitt's prevents her from taking part.

Scotland will serve Scotch short bread and marmalade and taffy; in charge of Mrs. Alexander Mitchell and daughter of Glendale, assisted by numerous Caledonians and "Clan Camerons" and others.

Ireland will serve fruit and vegetables, specializing on Irish potatoes which would inspire Mary MacLane to ultimate song and story. Mrs. Edward Malley will do the honors for the Emerald Isle, aided by Mrs. Hugh Blue—and—well, "The Campbells are coming"—Daniel and the whole Campbell family.

Wales will sell fancy work, under the auspices of "Friends of the Allies," a society in Pasadena, in charge of Mrs. Beatrice Fox and others, in Welch costume.

Arrangements for France are not yet completed but will be in charge of Mrs. Horace B. Wing, formerly of Glendale, with a French society of Los Angeles. The grand old "Marsiellas" will be sung as only a Frenchman can sing it, by the well known and very popular J. B. Poulin, musical director of the Ellis Club of Los Angeles. Mr. Poulin had the honor of purchasing the first ticket to this Allies Fiesta.

Belgium will serve jam, cake and candy, under Mrs. Willoughby Rodman of L. A., and the Belgian Consul—Wilsel—who resides in Glendale.

Russian arrangements are not completed, but Mrs. Ernest Quinan of L. A. will take part, with numerous others in Russian costume.

India will have a "White Elephant booth," with all the mystery that implies. That is an oriental name for a rummage sale, for which donations are requested. Donate anything whatsoever. Some one will buy it. That will be in charge of Mrs. John F. Hornsey, recently from Singapore --in native Indian costume. She is a new resident of Glendale, living on Jackson street. Her husband, Dr. Hornsey, a surgeon of the English army, has recently gone to the front.

Spain, Japan, Italy, Serbia, Poland and others are yet to hear from.

The treasurer of the Allies Fiesta is A. C. Way, cashier of the First National Bank of Los Angeles. The assistant treasurers are Herman Nelson, cashier of the Bank of Glendale, and Edward Malley of Glendale.

One thrilling incident of the Allies Fiesta will be that while great chorus will unite in singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." There is a pep, a vim, an inspiration beyond expression, in that great hymn of the Allies, which mean "conquer or die." And that spells "Victory."

Note—There will be a sweet lavender booth. Donations of sweet lavender are requested. All that can possibly be had. Sweet lavender specialties will be sold, and a large amount of fresh sweet lavender leaves will be needed.

Donations of any and all kinds can be used. They will be sent for, if notice be given to the secretary of the Glendale British Ambulance Society or to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Item—Why not donate a few town lots, located anywhere—they can be sold at auction. If mortgaged, the equity can be sold after the facts are clearly stated, and the title approved. At such an international fiesta, almost anything could be sold. Perhaps you have some interesting curio—some valuable relic which ought to be in a public exhibit—like that of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce. There are many ways in which you can do your bit.

(More anon about tomorrow or day after.)

NEW PLAN OF WORSHIP.

A new and popular plan of worship is to be adopted by the First Baptist Church, beginning with July 22, which also inaugurates the second year of the present pastorate. There will be a combined meeting of the Bible School and church service, beginning with the classes at 10 a.m. and following with the closing worship of the whole school, the latter being also the opening worship for the regular church service, which will be closed not later than the noon hour. The plan is proving very popular where once tried and the First Baptist people have voted to follow it out during the summer months.

CHINESE DOCTORS AND THEIR WAYS

The native Chinese doctor is a curiosity. He passes no examination; he may have failed in business and set up as a physician. In his new profession he requires little stock in trade, medical instruments being almost unknown.

Acupuncture, as it is called, is one of the nine branches recognized in medical science among the Chinese; it is of most ancient origin, having been in use from time immemorial. There are three hundred and thirty-seven body markings to be learned; every square inch on the human surface has its own name and some relationship to the internal parts, purely imaginary, is assigned to it. The user is cautioned against wounding the arteries; hence he must know the position of the blood vessels. By close study of a manikin pierced with holes, the Chinese physician learns where to drive his needles. Parts of the body are selected which may be pierced without fatal results. Sometimes heat is applied to the outer end of the needle and this is called hot acupuncture; but the needle is never heated before insertion. In some cases the needle has been known to break in the body of the patient, and has to remain there until extracted by some Western practitioner.

The needle used looks very much like a sewing-machine needle, but it is longer and coarser. Some of the Chinese doctors have needles two feet long, and are supposed, by ardent admirers, to be able to drive these instruments entirely through the patient's body. The great size of the needles is in reality intended to represent the greatness of the owner's skill and reputation. The needles used are of eight forms, as follows: the arrow-head, blunt puncturing, spear-pointed, fusiform, round, capillary, long, and thick. The point of insertion, the depth, and the direction are all-important. The method is usually to drive the needle through the distended skin by a blow from a light mallet.

If he can get an old book of prescriptions from a retiring practitioner, so much the better for the Chinese doctor. He is now equipped to kill or cure, as chance or his ignorance may dictate. The doctor most entitled to confidence in the sight of his countryman is the man whose father has been a doctor before him. Confidence in him knows no bounds should his grandfather have followed the same calling. This is not a mere fatuous belief in heredity, but is based on the supposed value of old prescription books passed on from grandfather to grandson.

Fees vary according to the physician's social class and that of his patients, and also according to the physican's place of residence. The enormous sum of perhaps fifteen American cents or half a dollar at the most may be charged for a visit, if the doctor comes in his sedan chair. Of this amount, a large proportion goes for the chair. Should the doctor belong to the humbler ranks and come on foot, his fee is proportionately less. He assumes a solemn air and an owllike look as he peers out of the semi-darkness of a Chinese bedroom through great goggle-shaped glasses—two inches across and set in huge, uncouth copper frames.

Most important in diagnosing a case, according to Chinese ideas, is the feeling of the different pulses of the human system. The pulse at each wrist is felt, and each is divided into three, which, according to the light or heavy character of the pressure, indicates a different organ of the body. By thus feeling the pulses, the state of a dozen real or imaginary organs are determined. Having then learned by the pressure of these three at each pulse, the seat of the disease, a few questions may be asked, but these are considered scarcely necessary. A prescription, sometimes calling for the most horrible and nauseating compounds, is prepared in large doses; for the native believes that the larger the dose, the more likely is it to prove efficacious. In prescribing for natives, the foreign doctors have to give the strictest injunctions that the paper box in which the pills are contained is not to be swallowed.—East and West.

Just as Dr. Bundy's office hour had begun, a very excited individual rushed in.

"Doctor, Doctor! Just one moment!" he cried.

"I'll see you shortly," said the doctor.

"Only a second, doctor!"

"I'll see you shortly," repeated the physician, with impatience.

The man, with a sigh, took a seat in the reception room. After several patients had consulted the doctor, the latter stepped over and said:

"You were in somewhat of a hurry, I believe, sir. What can I do for you?"

"Oh, nothing now," replied the man. "I just wanted to tell you that two suspicious looking fellows were fooling with your automobile—but they've gone off with it now."

The task of shaking hands is the most exacting of all the physical labors of the President. "After shaking hands with a few thousand people at public receptions, not only are the hands tired, but the neck and shoulders ache all over."

A man isn't mighty because he never falls, but because of his ability to rise when he tumbles.

BIRDS IN WAR ZONE

One of the commonest questions asked by bird lovers at this present crisis is, "What do the birds do in countries where the war is now raging?"

The most likely answer would be that they would flock to more peaceable surroundings, but this is not so.

Such birds as the lark, treepipit, yellow button, and common whitethroat have been seen just behind Ypres, and even while the terrible bombardment was in progress, except when the shells were fired very near them, the sparrows, greenfinches, and turtle doves in the trees round about were quite undisturbed.

In the marshy country, corncrakes were to be seen in large numbers, and in one particular spot a chorus of birds were heard regularly at dawn, in spite of rifle bullets from all sides.

A rather pathetic sight was witnessed not so long ago after a serious bombardment of a certain town. Two swallows returned to their old home in the roof of a cottage quite near the scene of action, only to find it in a heap of ruins. After disconsolately flying round for some time, they finally chose the eaves of a military hut, and proceeded to build another nest.—Exchange.

USEFULNESS OF ASBESTOS

It may be said that the field for asbestos is only opening up. Today asbestos products find their way into all walks of life from the factory to the home. The locomotive that pulls your train has asbestos in its boiler-lagging; its packings are asbestos; the fireman may wear asbestos gloves, while the parlor car in which you ride has its vestibule tops covered with asbestos cloth. Your automobile can be stopped and started quickly because it has asbestos break bands and clutch facing. In your own home, from the steampipe coverings in the cellar, and the mats on the stove and the dining table, to the shingles on the roof, asbestos is ever with you. No one can actually predict the number of uses to which this mineral will ultimately be put, either as a textile fiber or in other forms.—Exchange.

CHEMISTS IMPORTANT FACTORS IN THIS WAR

"The chemist and mining engineer will play a most important part in winning the war for the United States," said Charles Curtis, superintendent of Uncle Sam's customs assaying laboratory in Kansas City, Mo.

"The development of explosives and poison gases is wholly a chemical process. The problems of trench digging, mining and other earth operation are those of the mining engineer.

"Recognizing these facts, the American Chemical society has offered its services to the President, and is mobilizing its forces for war.

"We are in the best possible position to take advantage of the experience and mistakes of the other countries. Germany has made a terrible mistake in sending her chemists to fight in the trenches. Several hundred of the most eminent chemists in Germany have been killed, and their services lost, not only to Germany, but to the world. The chemists should be kept out of the firing line and put to work in making munitions, testing foods and perfecting other industrial activities in their line.

"American chemists are naturally thinking of new devices which will be of service in the war. The chlorine gas used by Germany is terrible but it is mild compared with others that might be employed, such as bromide or fluorine. These things are positively devilish, and it is terrible to think of using them, but it seems that war stops at nothing these days."

FOGS BEWILDER BIRDS

It is a curious thing that, though human beings are utterly bewildered in a dense fog, most animals find their way through it without much difficulty. A horse will trot along in its right direction as though the air were perfectly clear, and not only that, but will take the right turning at the right moment if it is at all accustomed to the road. A human being would take any turning but the right one. Birds, on the other hand, are utterly bewildered by fogs. Pigeons, for instance, will remain motionless all day long, half asleep, huddled up in their pigeon houses. Chickens and poultry of all kinds won't stir all the time a heavy fog is about. Birds of all kinds, as a matter of fact, seem helpless during foggy weather.—Pearson's.

WHAT AMERICA HAS PROVED

America has proved that it is practicable to elevate the mass of mankind—that portion which in Europe is calling the laboring or lower class—to raise them to self respect, to make them competent to act a part in the great right and great duty of self government, and she has proved that this may be done by education and the diffusion of knowledge. She holds out an example a thousand times more encouraging than ever was presented before to those nine-tenths of the human race who are born without hereditary fortune or hereditary rank.—Daniel Webster.

LA CANADA.

That the Belgium minister and a body of Belgians will parade Saturday, July 14, in Los Angeles, was the announcement made by Mrs. J. M. Murray Tuesday afternoon at the meeting of the La Canada Red Cross. The parade is not confined to these people only. Any one desiring to enter will be gladly received. After the parade, which will last for one hour, the Belgian minister and his staff will talk on "The Conditions in Belgium." These talks will be based upon actual knowledge and a profound sympathy for those struggling people of whom we really know so little. Also, Mrs. Murray announced that the following week, Saturday, July 21, the Los Angeles Red Cross Allies, of which Glendale is now a part, will hold an all-day open-air fete on the downtown streets of Glendale. The women are asked to donate canned goods or any other articles which might be sold as a benefit for the Los Angeles Red Cross Allies. Mrs. Granger suggested that the La Canada women work out something on this same plan to raise money here.

Last Thursday marked one of the most successful meetings for the La Canada Thursday club, when it held its last session of the season at Brookside Park, Pasadena. This was the annual all-day picnic. Each member was entitled to invite outside guests. After a twelve o'clock picnic lunch, the members of the club closed the unfinished business. The next meeting will not be until October. Later in the afternoon several took advantage of the plunge.

Three more La Canada boys have been summoned to our country's aid. Hubert Bently of North Commonwealth avenue is now in New York, where he expects to receive his passports for France. He has enlisted in the ambulance corps. Wm. Jewett, Jr., left Monday morning for San Pedro, where he will take two months' training for the Coast Naval Reserve. After that it is very uncertain where he will be sent. Edwin Cooper received a letter last Saturday, dated June 5th, which called him to Linda Vista, California. The letter was intended to reach Mr. Cooper by June 7 and he was to have reported in Linda Vista on June 12. Through some mistake the letter was miscarried to Washington. Mr. Cooper left Monday. He is enlisted in the Quartermaster's Reserve, and is employed in the construction of the training camp at Linda Vista.

Dr. Smalley, of North Commonwealth avenue, has received a physician's commission and will probably sail for France within the next two months. Dr. Smalley is employed in work at the Clara Barton hospital, Los Angeles. He filed his recommendations several weeks ago, but hardly expected to receive a commission. His recommendations from the Clara Barton hospital were excellent, a fact which no doubt played a great part in his being accepted.

"An Evening with Longfellow," is the attraction for the La Canada Improvement Association this Saturday evening. This program has been worked out by Mrs. Maynard of North Burr avenue. The well-known Longfellow characters are to be portrayed by living pictures. The various characters are worked out by people here in the valley. Mrs. Maynard has been working hard on this performance and the rehearsals have gone off in excellent form. A series of programs for the Improvement Association has been mapped out by Mrs. Granger, Mrs. Pate and Mr. Brooks for the next six months. Some one person has been asked to take charge of each program. A general idea is laid out for the program. He or she is privileged to work out original ideas and present the idea in any manner. Next month something in the way of movies is to be shown.

Summer dances, except at resorts, do not thrive. This is the theory upon which the La Crescenta Woman's club has decided to rely. Saturday night was the last dance of the season in the La Crescenta school house. Early in the fall the women will probably open another series of monthly dances. To close the season the dance Saturday was a contest of advertisements. About everything from the Gold Dust Twins to "Buy a Liberty Bond" was represented. Mr. Maygrove of Sunlands furnished the music.

The annual picnic given by the La Canada Missionary Society each year has been postponed.

TUJUNGA

Mrs. Murray Robinson of Los Angeles is the guest of Mrs. Chas. Dean and Miss Emma Kraft for the week.

Ab Bragdon brought in some fine Santa Rosa plums from his ranch, and Mr. Rouse brought in the first figs, also apricots. The trees in Tujunga are beginning to bear, many of them loaded with fine fruit, and in a few years the hillsides will be covered with bearing fruit trees. Trees grow rapidly on these hills.

Wallace Morgan of Bakersfield was a caller Thursday, and will remain for a few days' vacation.

Dr. White and daughter Rebecca have returned from their eastern trip. They enjoyed the motor trip to Chicago, but preferred to return by rail.

Miss Julia Sullivan of Hollywood is occupying her cottage on San Ysidro Road for a few days. She was very much surprised at the growth of Tujunga since her last trip here two years ago.

A number of ladies met at the school house to talk over the advisability of forming a Red Cross Auxiliary. After listening to Miss Culver in regard to the information she had gained from both the Los Angeles and Pasadena Red Cross Chapters, she was instructed to get further information from Pasadena before anything definite could be decided upon. Mrs. Wheeler gave a very interesting talk on the necessary steps toward the formation of a chapter or even an auxiliary of some large chapter. Mrs. Wheeler being a member of the Los Angeles Chapter, told us that that chapter was not able to furnish the work free to any of the outlying branches. In small towns where there is not much money and wages are low, it would be impossible for members to pay for membership and then furnish supplies for work, yet every lady would be glad to give her time once a week to help make necessary garments. With the large amount of money raised for Red Cross work in the past month, it would seem that some way could be found to give work to those who are willing to work. To go into Los Angeles and work a day each week would mean to pay out a dollar for lunch and carfare from this place, and very few are able to do this, yet are willing to give their services. The next meeting to decide the matter is called for Friday, July 13th, at 2:30 p. m. at the school house. A large attendance is requested.

Mrs. Frost has put a new trellis on the north side of her house.

Miss Hagenbush, who has been here with her friends, Miss Holey and Miss Bangs, has added much to her cottage, until it is a model of convenience and comfort.

Miss Frances Morgan will enter the Cumnock School of Expression for the summer.

Mr. Ed. Greenfield and son-in-law, Mr. Cloetta, are at Oceanside on a fishing trip. We trust their luck will be better than the writer's, who has sat many a day on the pier at Oceanside with the usual fisherman's luck, save one time when in casting a very fine hat pin caught in the line and went down to feed the fishes.

Mrs. Wills and son, of Los Angeles are guests of Mr.Correa on San Ysidro Road. Mr. Correa is a son-in-law of Mrs. Wills.

Mr. Lamson, the photographer, will leave for his summer work at Wheeler Springs the 15th of this month and will be away about six weeks.

Mr. Arthur Doane of Oakland, who has been spending a two weeks' vacation with his parents in El Centro, finished his vacation with a wedding. He was married at high noon, Monday to Mintie V. Shuman of Los Angeles. Best wishes for both and happiness go with them.

Wilmot Parcher has been engaged in tearing down some buildings on the place purchased by him on the Verdugo Road, and moving them to the new home place in Tujunga.

Mr. and Mrs. Slavinsky are the proud possessors of a baby girl, born to them at the Burbank hospital July fifth. Both mother and babe are doing well.

The key for the dish cupboard at the club house will be found hereafter at Mrs. Darlington's home on Stephens way. Fifty cents in advance is the charge for the use of the dishes, stove and kitchen utensils, all or any part of them. Those renting them must pay for breakage, furnish oil for the stove, and tea towels.

Episcopal service will be held at the school house on Sunday, July 15, at 11 a. m. Preaching by Rev. Renison, followed by communion service.

Mrs. Sanburn and daughter Virginia were in Tujunga for a few days at their home on San Ysidro Road.

Bobbie Best, who has been recuperating from a siege of pneumonia at the home of his uncle, George Slusher, returns to his work at Zelza on Saturday. While we are glad to know of his recovery, we shall miss him from our midst.

Mr. and Mrs. Kemper, who have been at Bear Lake the past month, were callers on Tuesday.

Mrs. Maygrove and "Binge" will spend the week with Mrs. Clark at Long Beach.

Misses Margaret and Geneva Lang were camping all the week in Haynes Canyon.

The Ladies' Aid Society of Tujunga will entertain the Ladies' Aid of Sunland at Manzanita Park July 12.

Mrs. Minnie Martin went to Ontario Wednesday for a short visit.

THE STARLIGHT EXPRESS

The brightest thing we know is the sun, whose radiant light is so fierce that we cannot look at it with unshaded eyes. How dim by contrast seems the light of a star! Yes, as Sir Watson Dyson has been reminding us, there are stars six hundred times as bright as the sun. That is difficult to realize, but think of stars still farther from the earth, ten thousand times brighter than our sun! It is because they are so unthinkably distant from us that these glowing worlds seem to us mere points of light in the sky. Arcturus, one of these bright stars, is a million times as great as the sun, and its light takes a quarter of a century to reach us; that of Aldebaran is over forty-two years on the way. Now, the speed of light is 186,000 miles a second. The stars are so far from us that, although the earth travels 180 million miles a year, yet the stars do not appear to alter their position in relation to us. If they are overhead at the beginning of the earth's yearly journey, they are still overhead at the end of it. Starlight will reach the battlefield to-night which shot from the stars while the Franco-German War was in progress. The light which is leaving the same stars to-night will not reach the earth until the war is over and gone, only a memory upon the scarred mind of man.

USUAL GREETINGS

She—Did you ever go a-courting?

He—Oh, yes.

She—What did you say?

He—I said, "Good morning, Judge."

Lady.—We always keep the hose ready in case of a Zeppelin raid.

Visitor.—But, surely, my dear, it would never reach them at the height they fly.—Punch.

There is song, if you will sing it;
There is joy, if you will bring it;
There is love, if you inspire it,
Knowledge, if you will acquire it.
There are echoes, if you wake them;
There are pleasures, if you make them;
There are fruits, if you will plant them;
Kindness, if you will grant them.
Fame is yours, if you deserve it;
Character, if you preserve it.

—Mrs. E. H. Rogers.

Julius Rosenwald, the eminent Jewish citizen of Chicago, is said to have given twenty thousand dollars a month to various war charities for the last two years. He has pledged a million dollars to be spent in Europe by the Jewish Relief Committee.

'Tis far better to love and be poor than be rich with an empty heart.

NATURE'S REFRIGERATOR

A reader who was interested in the account of the use the people of Boise make of their hot springs to heat their houses, writes us of another natural curiosity that man has turned to domestic account. He says:

At Thompson Falls in western Montana there is a well from which a small current of air constantly flows. In summer the air is at thirty-five degrees Fahrenheit, which is about that of a scientifically constructed refrigerator.

The owner of the land on which the well is found has built a small room of tightly fitted lumber over the well, which is right beside the house; in this room he keeps all the perishable food that his family uses. His store is not far away, and he has built a room in the basement of that building which is connected with the well by an underground pipe. In the pipe there is a damper that can be closed or opened by means of a chain that runs up through the floor to the office above. There he keeps all the perishable merchandise that he has for sale.

The current of air is very nearly constant in temperature. In the winter, it is warmer than the outside air, and the storeroom can be used to keep articles from freezing.

No satisfactory explanation of the reason for this current of air has has been found. No open passage was connected when the well was dug, but the current seemed to came from every direction through the gravel at the bottom. At the opening in the basement of the store the force is sufficient to blow a handkerchief, held in both hands, straight out; and a hat placed in the entrance of the pipe is at once blown out.—Youth's Companion.

"Dat baby of you's," said Mrs. Jackson, "am de puffect image ob his fathah."

"Yas," answered Mrs. Johnson. "He am a reg'lar carbon copy."

Madam Hen. "Why, the very idea—with eggs selling at sixty cents a dozen!"

Doctor—There's the original prescription. I can't imagine how you made that mistake in putting it up!

Druggist—Humph! I must have mixed your signature in with the other ingredients.—Life.

"Darling, won't you marry me? I would die for you!"

"How sweet of you! How much are you insured for?"—Baltimore American.
